CLEM WOOD JOINS EVERGREEN ENGINEERING IN HILLSBORO

(HILLSBORO, OR) October 5, 2006 – Evergreen Engineering (Evergreen) announced that Clem Wood, formerly of Fluor Corporation, has joined Evergreen as a Principal and Business Development Manager. Acknowledged as an expert in tool install design and construction, Wood's business development efforts will focus on the United States east coast market for the semiconductor industry.

Wood's past positions over his near 20 year career in Microelectronics and Nanotechnology include Executive Program Manager for Microelectronics-Tool Installation, Operations Manager, Business Development Area Manager, Site Manager and Project Engineer for Fluor Corporation, Industrial Design Corporation, and Black and Veatch.

"We are very excited to have Clem on our team and are confident that it will lead to new opportunities for our company," stated Todd Alsdorf, a Principal of Evergreen Engineering. "Bringing Clem on board was a simple decision for us; we have collaborated on various projects in the past which brings familiarity to our work processes."

Wood joins the Evergreen team as the eighth principal. The group of principals is now comprised of (in alphabetical order): Todd Alsdorf, Rich Bernhardt, Steve Cruft, Michael Hardy, Dick Larsen, Dan Mejdell, John Solvason, and Clem Wood. Each principal brings his own specialized expertise to Evergreen including project management, engineering principles, construction management, and business development.

Established in 1985, Evergreen serves industries such as light industrial, bioscience, semiconductor, forest and wood products throughout the United States and Canada. With over 90 engineering, construction, and administrative staff, Evergreen is the right size to remain nimble yet have technical depth to serve today's customer. Evergreen provides design, construction, and code services to a wide range of projects that range from $5,000 to $150M, with nearly 95% of repeat business. With offices in Eugene, OR; Hillsboro, OR; Atlanta, GA; Santa Clara, CA; and Albany, NY, Evergreen has been commended for its ability to listen to clients and takes pride in its ability to do jobs other firms consider too difficult or impossible.
